The Great yellow bumblebee is one of the UK’s rarest bumblebees.
Great yellow bumblebee

Bombus distinguendus

The Great yellow bumblebee used to be found across the whole of the UK. It is now only found in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland.

Caithness and Sutherland support the last remaining populations on the mainland.

It is found in habitats rich in wild flowers and gardens with bee friendly plants.

It can be seen between June and August.
Going, going, gone…?

The Great yellow bumblebee needs your help!